1) Martin's air travel to Spain was a bad experience. His yesterday's flight became a nightmare*. At 10 o'clock in the morning, Martin left for the airport by taxi.

2) When at the airport, the customs officer asked for his passport. Suddenly, Martin shouted: "What bad luck! Where is my passport?" At that moment, Martin realized he forgot it at home. He became very angry. He jumped into the taxi and asked the driver to take him home very quickly. After twenty minutes, he arrived there. He ran into the house, directly into his bedroom. He found his passport on the bedside table and left the house again. But the taxi wasn't there! "Where's the taxi?"

3) Few minutes later, Martin found another taxi and asked the driver to take him to the airport as fast as possible. The traffic on the road was very bad. So he got to the airport late. Unluckily the plane left for Spain at 11:30 and Martin missed it. He was very sad and he spoke to the airline officers. They promised to find him a seat on an evening flight. Then, he felt a bit relaxed.
