Dear Francis,

I got your letter today and I'm writing back immediately. I'm (sorry / pleased / happy) to hear you're so upset.

I don't think it's a good idea to leave home. You must (have / solve / keep) your problems, not run away from them! You're right, mum and dad shouldn't treat you like (a teenager /an adult / a child), but don't forget, you're only fourteen and they worry (on / about / to) you! Tell them that you're growing up and need more (freedom / freer / free). Why don't you explain to them how you feel? But every time you go out, you should tell (they / them / their) where you're going and who you're going to be with. Then, they won't worry so much.

Take my advice and you'll see that things aren't as (bad / worse / worst) as you think.

I really hope everything goes well. Write back and tell me.

Love, Mary

3- Put the words in brackets in the correct form or tense. (3 pts)
Our relationships with our children undergo different changes. The good time for us was when Betty was a little child. We were very close. However, we had a very difficult period when she was about fifteen years old. She became (disobey) and pig-headed I remember that we (fight) a lot about coming late at night and (help) her mother at home. I wasn't probably strict enough. I never hit her. I just warned her against disobedience and rudeness. Betty is now 18 and (mature) We get on well. We talk about lots of things but we don't have serious (argue) anymore. She leans on me for support when she is in trouble and I don't mind (give) her advice.
