1- Circle the right alternative.

Kayle had to move to another school after her first school failed to protect her against aggression. (Although, But, And) she had serious stomach problems, a girl at her school (hit, met, argued) her in the stomach.

The school (complained, refused, apologized) to consider this as an act (for, in, of) violence. Though the headmistress assured that Kayle would be (calm, safe, hard), the same girl followed her and pushed her (slowly, safely, violently) to the playground when she went back to school.

2- Circle the right alternative.

Throughout their school life, many children have problems attending school or with their behaviour in school. This is unsurprising as they (spend – spent – spending) so much of their time there. Some children find the transition between home and school difficult in the mornings. (Whereas - As a result – More), they may feel sick, have headaches or tummy aches, or find it hard to get up and get ready. This is very stressful for the child and parents and can cause lots of (worry – worried – worrying). Some children who are like this settle down once they are in school and feel fine (up – from - by) the afternoon. Others are also anxious while in school and (have to – mustn't – can't) be sent home if they are too distressed.
